Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite without specifically defining the structure which applicant intends to claim. For example, looking at claim 1: it is unclear what is the limits of the "system" as in the preamble since the system is only claimed as "for" the screw and plastic support thus is the system limited to the metal part as implied in the preamble or the metal part in combination with the screw and plastic support as in the body of the claims; it is "of special application" requires an automobile and does "specifically" further limit it to a distribution box and would that be required to be in an automobile?; it is unclear that is intended by "materialized"; it is unclear if "special housing" has any significance; "acts" is indefinite; there is no antecedent basis for "the recess" and; there is no antecedent for "its own fixing". The subsequent claims also include similar areas of indefiniteness requiring correction.

The applicant is invited to telephone the undersigned examiner to discuss any proposed claim language to avoid the claims being indefinite. The claims were examined as best understood.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yang (US 5,795,193). Initially, it should be recognized that the claims were considered as best understood with the system being inclusive of the combined metal part, plastic support and screw. In that regard, Yang discloses a system comprising a screw (18), plastic support (10) intended for use in an automobile and a metallic part (50). The metallic part is U-shaped (see Fig. 3) and includes a hole (62) in its central branch which receives the screw (see Fig. 4) such that the combined screw and metal part is received into a special recess (40) in the plastic support. There further is provided a bottom to the recess (at 46) and grooves which receive the metal part (at portion 52) and lastly, there is provided dentations (66 and 76).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
